Sketch of Mr. Burlingame's Life.

BIRTH ANCESTRY AND EARLY LIFE.

Anson Burlingame was born at New Berlin, in New York State on the 14th of November, 1822. His ancestors came early to this Continent, and originally settled in Rhode Island, but subsequently moved to the interior of this State. During the French wars in the 18th century the Burlingames took active part in support of the British provinces. On the outbreak of the war for American independence the family were stanch patriots, and were represented in the army and navy of the infant republic. The father of Mr. Burlingame, like that gentleman, was a native of New Berlin, and his mother, Miss Angel, descended from Colonel Israel Angel, the famous fighter in the revolutionary army commanded by General Green, was born in Providence, R. I. It will thus be seen that on both the paternal and maternal side the distinguished dead sprang from an old and honorable line.

While yet an infant, Mr. Burlingame's parents emigrated to the Wyandotte Indian country, in northern Ohio. Here his early years were spent in hard labor and without any educational advantages. His father pursued the occupation of a drover and a horse trader, and he aided in driving the cattle and horses to the army posts and numerous settlements in the Territory of Michigan. This rude, adventurous life continued for some years, when the family moved to Detroit, where the lad may be said to have begun life on his own account. He was frequently employed by surveying parties as chain carrier and in other capacities, accompanying them on long and arduous expeditions, which were often rendered dangerous because of the hostility of the Indians. When a boy he sat in the Indian councils at Mackinac, and was witness to the making of several treaties with the Chippewas.

HIS EDUCATION AND PROFESSION.

Naturally enough the life Mr. Burlingame led in his boyhood made him robust and hearty; but it was not a career acceptable either to his parents or to himself. Happily, his father's circumstances improved after his removal to Detroit, and the lad was sent to the academy at that place. He was diligent and studious, and made rapid progress. On leaving the academy he went to the Branch University of Michigan, where he went through a regular course of studies, taking several prizes for proficiency and graduating with honors.—At this time Mr. Burlingame was not more than twenty-one years of age. It was determined that he should make the law his profession, to which end, by advice of friends, he was sent to Massachusetts, where he entered Harvard University in 1843, taking his degree in 1846.

His education being in every respect completed, Mr. Burlingame took up his residence in Boston. The deciding reason for not returning to Detroit is said to have been of a tender nature. On one occasion, during the vacation of the Harvard Law School, he was in Boston, and chanced to be present at a whig political meeting, where one of the speakers made a statement to the effect that Michigan had repudiated her obligations. The young student, who was cognizant of the facts, promptly rose to his feet and, demanding the the attention of the assemblage, which was readily given, pronounced the statement incorrect, and by argument proved it so. This incident, which was published in the papers at the time, brought him into notice, and, as it were, associated him with the politics of the country. He soon became acquainted with the prominent politicians of the day, among whom was Mr. Isaac Livermore, then chairman of the Whig State Central Committee. At the residence of this gentleman he met the daughter of his host, Miss Jane Livermore, with whom he fell in love and whom he subsequently married. The attractions of Boston increasing with the birth of his affection he gave up all ideas of returning to Michigan. Accordingly, he at once entered upon the practice of the law in partnership with George P. Briggs, and in a brief period of time entered upon a successful professional career. As a lawyer he was not what is termed "brilliant;" but he was a solid reasoner, and his arguments before the courts were always noted for their logic and force. It is not too much to say that had he continued the practice of the law without intermission, he would have by this time possessed a reputation second to no practitioner in the country.

HIS POLITICAL CAREER.

Mr. Burlingame had, however, entered upon his political life. Before he had resided six years in Boston he was elected a member of the State Senate from the county of Middlesex. This was in 1852. During the year following he was elected a delegate to the Massachusetts State Constitutional Convention, representing the town of Northboro. He was not a resident of the town, but was chosen under the English borough system which then prevailed in the State. As a State Senator Mr. Burlingame distinguished himself by his determined opposition to the prohibitory liquor laws and to all other sumptuary enactments by the Legislature. He delivered several fine speeches in support of his views on these questions, winning so extensive a reputation among the people that he was nominated in the fall of 1855 for representative in Congress, for the Fifth District of Massachusetts, comprising Boston, Cambridge and Chelsea, and was chosen by a decided majority. At the close of his term he was re-elected to the Thirty-fifth, and again in 1858 to the Thirty-sixth Congress, serving each time on the Committe of Foreign Affairs. It was during the first session that the great contest over the Speakership took place. Mr. Burlingame was an active supporter of General Banks, who was finally elected, voting for him throughout the exciting contest and delivering several speeches in his behalf. On all the great questions of the day he was prominent, participating successfully in debate, adding to the reputation he had already acquired as a fluent, logical speaker, and giving unmeasured satisfaction to his constituency.

VERY NEARLY A DUEL.

Unlike the majority of New England public men, Mr Burlingame was not opposed, for certain causes, to the "code of honor." Shortly after Senator Sumner was whipped in the Senate Chamber by Mr. Brooks, of South Carolina, he made a long speech in the House of Representatives on the subject, denouncing the attack as unwarranted by the remarks of the Senator and as cowardly in the extreme. He closed his remarks by saying that "he was ever ready to defend his sentiments upon any field in which they might be assailed." Brooks, who was no coward, notwithstanding his faults, in reply to this speech, promptly forwarded a challenge to Mr. Burlingame, who as promptly accepted it. The intention at first was to fight either in the District of Columbia or in Maryland. However, the friends of Mr. Burlingame represented to him the dangerous position in which he might probably place himself by engaging in a duel within the limits of the United States. He was a member of Congress, and so was his adversary. Both were liable to expulsion for the act. Yielding to these representations, he, through his second, notified his opponent that he would fight in Canada, and, accordingly, Mr. Burlingame proceeded immediately to New York, where he wrote to a friend to meet him, with a pair of rifles mentioned in his letter. But the hostile meeting never took place. Mr. Brooks refused to fight elsewhere than at a point south of Philadelphia, alleging subsequently, it is said, that the feeling in the North was hostile to him, and in the event of his adversary falling his person, if not his life, would be subject to indignity on his way home. Be this explanation true or not, it is certain that the duel was never fought.

THE CHINESE MISSION.

Much as he had already done for the achievement of an enviable and lasting reputation, Mr. Burlingame's career in Congress was destined to be a minor incident in his life. During the exciting canvass of 1860, which resulted in the election of Lincoln, he had been an active and an efficient supporter of that gentleman, delivering speeches in his behalf and contributing in other ways to his success. Soon after the inauguration of the new President Mr. Burlingame was tendered the mission to Austria. He accepted the appointment and had started for Vienna, when he was informed that the Imperial government would not receive him as the diplomatic representative of the United States. The reason for this was that he had taken a prominent part in raising the mission to Sardinia from a second to a first-class. Absurd as this was the ground on which Austria based her determination to reject him, and insulting as it was to the United States, our government could do nothing in the premises. A gigantic war was on our hands, which rendered it necessary to avoid all diplomatic entanglements. Accordingly, the insult, if any was intended, was quietly ignored, Mr. Burlingame's name was withdrawn for Austria and subsequently sent in for the position of Ambassador to China.

Although the grade is second on the list of diplomatic positions, at no time has the Chinese mission been other than full of difficulties.—The increasing trade of the United States with China, coupled with the fact that our government did not then, as it still does not, seek territorial aggrandizement in the East, had, in a measure, placed us in antagonism with Great Britain and France, whose aim has been for years past to dismember the Celestial Empire. The interests of the United States were opposed to this policy. China, independent, was a source of commercial benefit to us; reduced to a territorial condition by European governments her commerce would naturally fall into their hands by means of the advantages which would follow the political subjection of the country. It was therefore essential to our success in the East that she should remain independent of European Powers and open her commerce to a fair rivalry. It was fortunate for the country that Mr. Burlingame, although a firm and consistent Christian, did not cherish any prejudices against the Chinese and their government, either because of their Paganism or because of their having at various times murdered missionaries. As a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs in Congress, he had become more or less intimately acquainted with the condition of affairs in China. The question of our relations with that country had occupied his mind, which had already decided upon what our settled policy should be. Still, there were delicate matters which would require the attention of a Minister, for which no provision could be made in advance. An American missionary might be murdered in one of the provinces; Chinese pirates might capture an American vessel—in a word, a thousand eventualities beyond present calculations confronted the new Minister.

HIS DIPLOMATIC CAREER IN CHINA.

Late in 1861 Mr. Burlingame arrived at Pekin, and at once opened diplomatic relations with the Chinese government. At first he did not inform his colleagues representing other foreign nations what his policy should be. He desired first, by actual experience, to demonstrate that his was the correct one. Mr. Burlingame, therefore, proceeded to solve the Chinese problem. Up to the time of his arrival European diplomacy with China had been simple. The moment there was an entanglement cannon balls, rifle bullets and cold steel were employed to unite the knot. Death and desolation were the agents used by Christian civilization to make an impression upon Chinese paganism. The new American Minister instituted numerous inquiries, he closely investigated the various questions that arose, and when he had given the entire question a careful consideration he found his original ideas fully confirmed. He saw that the line of policy pursued by foreign nations was unjust. It had given rise to numerous abuses of the most flagrant character. His broad, comprehensive mind recognized the fact that the best way to impress China with the advantages of our civilization was to begin by treating her as an equal, sovereign and independent nation. Mr. Burlingame at once took issue with his diplomatic colleagues. He boldly told them that their governments were unjust to China and Chinese, and proposed that they try a new policy. Fortunately for his ideas, Mr. Burlingame had contracted a warm friendship for Sir Frederick Bruce, then British Minister to Pekin, which was returned by that gentleman. The two studied the Chinese language together, spending some five hours each day in learning the tongue of the Celestials. Thrown thus frequently into each other's society interchange of thoughts made each fully acquainted with the other's ideas. Sir Frederick had tried the gunboat policy without success and was open to suggestions. Mr. Berthemy, the French Minister, and the Russian Minister were liberally inclined, and they, after considering the subject, decided upon supporting the views of the American Minister. Thus was laid what was known as the "co-operative policy," which is now generally acceded to by the representatives of foreign nations in China. Mr. Burlingame prepared the draft of this policy and submitted it to his colleagues, with explanations, and they endorsed it. Continuing his work he examined the different treaties and prepared an exposition of them, analyzing their text and clearing up many doubtful points. The "concession" doctrine which proposed to take lands at the different treaty ports he zealously opposed. He argued justly that if foreign Powers had no designs upon the sovereignty of China they should not compel these concessions, which were of themselves a fruitful source of irritation and an insult to the dignity of the Chinese government. Step by step Mr. Burlingame pursued his freeing China from the incubus of grape shot arguments. His success was a great triumph for American diplomacy, and as such it will be recorded in history.

MR. BURLINGAME AS A CHINESE AMBASSADOR.

Early in 1867 the subject of this sketch determined upon retiring from his mission and returning to the United States. He had been absent for six years, excepting one brief visit, and he was anxious to return to his home, as he then supposed he had effected all the good that he could, and more than he had anticipated, in persuading his diplomatic colleagues to try a little moral suasion before battering down Chinese towns. Accordingly he announced his intention of tendering his resignation to the President. As soon as the Prince of Kung, the present Prime Minister of China, became cognizant of this fact he invited the retiring diplomat to a farewell banquet at the Foreign Office. As might be supposed, the Chinese government had watched Mr. Burlingame's course and the development of his policy with keen interest, but the rulers of the empire had never intimated to him any desire on their part of employing his services in a diplomatic capacity. All he knew was that his course was held in appreciation, and that he possessed a certain influence with the government above that possed by the other Ministers. While the entertainment to which we have referred was at its height, Wentsiang, a prominent official, inquired of Mr. Burlingame if he would be willing to represent China at the courts of the different treaty nations in an official capacity. The American Minister, supposing the question put humorously, replied in a like manner that he would have no objection. His answer, however, was reported to the imperial government and accepted seriously. A few days later he received a visit from Mr. Brown, who afterwards became his first secretary, who, by the authority of the Prince of Kung, formally tendered him the mission. He gave the offer all the deliberation its importance demanded, and finally decided on accepting it. On the 21st of November, 1867, an imperial decree was promulgated creating the mission. Mr. Burlingame was therein appointed a mandarin of the first rank, with the title of Chin-chi-choong-Poo-an-chen, (literally minister of heavy responsibility). All the requisite powers were conferred upon him, and after the Embassy was complete it left Pekin for Hong Kong, where it took steamer for San Francisco, arriving at that city April, 1868. We should not omit to state here that the title and emoluments bestowed upon Mr. Burlingame were not for life, although they were offered for such. He, however, declined it, and at his own suggestion the original proffer of $80,000 was reduced to $50,000.

WHAT THE MISSION DID.

Associated with Mr. Burlingame were several able Chinese, while the two principal secretaries were gentlemen well acquainted with China. Arrived in the United States the party were the recipients of much attention. In his speech at the banquet given in his honor at San Francisco, Mr. Burlingame declared that the mission meant progress, and that China desired to cultivate closer relations with the Western Powers. At all prominent points in the United States the Embassy was heartily welcomed, and when it reached Washington no difficulty was encountered in making a treaty, which the Senate ratified without a dissenting voice. In September, 1868, the Embassy sailed for Europe, visiting England, France, Denmark, Prussia and other countries on the Continent. Mr. Burlingame was everywhere received with distinguished consideration, and succeeded in effecting treaties with the various Powers. Russia, where he died, was the last country to be visited, and with it would have ended his labors, the results of which he believed would exceed his most sanguine expectations.

HIS PLANS FOR THE FUTURE.

The probability of and early death did not enter into the mind of Mr. Burlingame. In 1865 he paid a visit to the United States, and while in San Francisco purchased a large tract near that city. On his return at the head of the Chinese mission he was offered $80,000—a considerable advance on the price paid by him—for his land, but he declined to sell, because of his intention to reside in California on the conclusion of his diplomatic work. While in New York he informed a friend that if the Chinese government was satisfied with the treaties effected by him, he would be willing to accept the position of a general ambassador to foreign nations for China, his place of residence to be in California. Death, however, has destroyed all these plans with the life of the diplomat that made him.

CONCLUSION.

Mr. Burlingame's domestic relations were of the happiest kind. As a husband he was most affectionate, as a father he was fond and kind. He leaves a wife and three children, of whom one is a daughter and the other sons. Personally he was a pleasant and sociable gentleman, true and steadfast to friends and open and honorable to all. Whether regarded from a political or social standpoint his death must be considered a calamity to be mourned, an event to be deplored.

Employment for Women.

Women unmarried or widows, are, by thousands, eagerly looking for work. Not only those in the East but others in the South and the West. A much greater number of occupations are open to them in the East than in the West or the South. They are employed as copyists, agents, and, in some cases, as book-keepers. There, too, it is deemed honorable for women to be sale clerks for merchants dealing in any description of goods. There are also many manufacturing establishments in which work is given to women, as of furriers, confectioners, toy-makers, japanners, paper-makers, feather and flower-makers, and engravers on wood and steel. These, in addition to the numerous opportunities for labor much more severe, in ordinary woolen, cotton, carpet, shoe, suspender, button, pin, hook-and-eye factories and others.

The New York Tribune, however, in reply to scores of letters from the South and West, declares that while the list of employments seems large enough to afford every woman who desires it abundant employment, it is not so. Every place is filled, and a needy candidate for it stands hungrily waiting at the side of the occupant. The only doors wide open in the seaboard cities are those of "ruin or starvation."

It therefore tenders the following advice, which is stern and chilling indeed, but is sound, wise, and very suggestive:

"Our final advice to all past or future applicants is: Stay at home, where you are known, and where you will at least be sure of that human sympathy—that esprit du corps which forms part of the atmosphere of a country village. You will find none of it waiting for you in the streets of a great city, however laudable your endeavor; and a woman, call herself by what unwomanly name she will, dies without it, as surely as a bird in an exhausted receiver. Being at home, take up any work, man's or woman's, for which you are fitted, and which pays living prices. Do it as thoroughly as a man, and you need not fear his competition. The very novelty of the attempt will insure success.

"The employment of the weaker sex, even as saleswomen in shops, is unknown in most Southern or Western towns. They are confined there, by custom, to the needle or the teachers' desk. The woman who opens another avenue for them by the example of her own courage and integrity in labor, not only serves herself but establishes a city of refuge for countless other needy and feebler victims to whom the social barriers are now impregnable. But let her make her city of refuge enduring. Let her remember, before beginning, that in the world of trade her pitiable condition will avail her nothing. Its laws are hard but inflexible; it is the contract honestly fulfilled, the undertaking most thoroughly finished, the artist's touch in the picture, the sound, hard logic in the speech, that in the end commands the reward; not beauty in distress, or starving children. Wages follow the worker, not the pauper; charity belongs to another question. If the necessities of mind and body to-day force women to take up the work of men, few men would be so churlish, for the sake of their own shattered ideal, as to refuse to bid them God-speed. But coming into our world of labor they must submit to our laws, and be subject to our defeats; and the first and most inexorable of its maxims is that which demands hard drudgery from every aspirant in every path, and assures us, with keenly worldly wisdom, that it is only success which insures success."

Resolute indeed must be the woman who ventures forward in earnest to face work under these rigorous conditions. But she who does it will help herself and help the great host of women who silently and sadly look at work which they know they can do, and yet dare not try. Courage, real independence, respect for the worker, contempt for the idler, will steadily increase in the South, and with it the active labor and the real prosperity of all the people will be augmented.

The almost despairing appeal of women for means to educate themselves for self-supporting labor, touches all to the heart. We are hardly nearer a solution of the difficulty now than formerly. But one thing we do not clearly see, that new avenues of honest labor are opening daily, and that women need but courage, patience, and real dignity in place of false pride, to be soon earning better wages and loading far more useful and satisfactory lives.

But, alas! the hardness of this present day is not easy to bear. Hard, too, is it to want for the glowing promise of the future to become fruition, even though that be but a very few years forward.

The National Game—The Present Club Organization.

Notwithstanding a certain degree of falling off in enthusiasm, the principal Base-Ball Clubs of the country are in a flourishing condition, and the coming season there is every reason to believe will witness a marked revival in this really manly and healthy physical exercise. Every city, town and hamlet has its base ball club, and the oil regions has its full quota of the disciples of this game, to whom all other sports are of secondary interest, and in whose exercises and contentions they beguile many a summer day. The different leading organizations are making great preparations for the Spring campaign, and we expect many notable and exciting matches. The renowned have made no important changes in their organization. It has a full treasury, and is prepared to offer tempting premiums. George Wright will play short stop; Harry Wright, centre field; Asa Brainard, pitcher; Doughs Allison, catcher; Fred Waterman, third base; Andrew Leonard, left field, Charles Sweasy, second base: Charles Gould, first base, and Calvin McVoy, right field. The salaries paid the above players range from $1,000 to $2,000 exclusive of travelling expenses.

THE HAYMAKER CLUB, OF TROY,

which has also achieved national reputation, is just now in a rather disorganized condition. Efforts to again place it in the front rank are being made with good prospect of success. Some of its best men, however, have linked their fortunes with other organizations. Craver and Bellan are with the Trimountains; M. Hing, Powers, Macatee and Flynn, with the Chicago Club, and Fisher with the Athletics.

THE ATLANTIC CLUB, OF BROOKLYN, is ready for the field and will present a formidable front to ambitious rivals. It stands as follows: Lipman Pike, second base; Joseph Start, first base; Charles Smith, third base; George Zeitlein, pitcher; Robert Ferguson, catcher; John Chapman, left field; John McDonald, right field; Richard Pierce, short stop; and a young fielder, named Munn, from Alpha Club, for centre.

CHICAGO CLUB, OF CHICAGO.

This club is not yet fully organized, the third base being yet unfilled. Those already selected are, however, recognized as among the best players of the country, and the Garden City, seldom behind in anything, will, no doubt when the time comes, prove that in base-balling she has no exception. The names of members of the above club now chosen are as follows: Flynn, Powers, McAtee, and M. King, from the Haymaker Club, of Troy; Wood, Treacy, and Hodes, of the Eckford Club, of Williamsburg; and Meyerle, of the Athletic Club, of Philadelphia. The position of these men at the latest date had been thus decided upon: Meyerle, pitcher; Hodes, catcher; Wood, second base, McAtee, first base; Powers, short stop; K. King, centre field; Treacy, left field; Flynn, right field. The post of the third base, it is seen from the above, is the unfilled one.

ATHLETIC CLUB, OF PHILADELPHIA,

which may also be termed the Keystone State Champions, is fully organized, and, it is claimed, is stronger than ever. They are determined to more than recover their losses of last year.

The newly organized nine is reported to be —McBride, pitcher; Dockney (probably), catcher; Fisher (late of the Haymaker Club), first base; Albert Reach, second base; Berry, third base; Radcliffe, short stop; McMullen, left field; Sensenderfer, centre field; Fisher, right field.

THE ECKFORD CLUB, OF WILLIAMSBURG, has been thoroughly broken up by the desertion of its members. Of last year's nine but one is left. Jewett, Patterson, Martin, Allison, and Nelson, are now numbered with the Mutuals; Treacey, Wood and Hodes with the Chicago, and Pinkham with the Olympics, of Washington.

A meeting of the Directors is to be held on the 3d prox., at which, probably, measures to reorganize will be taken.

THE MUTUALS, OF NEW YORK,

now numbers five of the Eckford men, and the club is believed to be now one of the strongest in the country. It is organized as follows: First base, Andrew Alliton; short stop, Everett Mille; second base, John V. Hatfield; third base, John Nelson; pitcher, Ryner Wolters; catcher, Charles Mills; left field, Thos. Patterson; centre field, David Eggler; right field, Alphonse Martin; George Flanly and Martin Swandell extras. The Union Grounds at Williamsburg have again been selected as the club field.

WHAT IT COSTS TO GOVERN ALASKA.—In reply to a resolution of inquiry, the Secretary of the Treasury has furnished a statement of the disbursements and receipts in Alaska, since that delectable country became a territory of the United States. The total disbursements, embracing everything both civil and military, foot up the handsome sum of $597,789. The receipts from all sources, for the same period, amount to $21,850, leaving the trifling little difference on the debt side of the account of $575,939. From this it may be seen that the cost of governing that hyperborean region will amount to no small sum.

IMPORTANT DECISION.—The United States Supreme Court has decided that divorces granted in one State, if valid and according to the laws and Constitution of such State, are good in any other State. Any other decision would set at naught the laws of one State, whenever the Courts of any other State saw fit to pronounce them of non-effect. A divorced citizen of Indiana has certain rights, by the laws of that State, and is entitled to all his "rights and immunities" in other States.

General News.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.

The Supreme Court of Philadelphia, Chief Justice Thompson presiding, yesterday rendered a decision in favor of the proposed lease of the Atlantic & G. W. R. R. to the Erie Co., and peremptorily dismissed the bill of exceptions that have been filed by the first mortgage bondholders and other opposing parties—the parties opposed to lease being ordered to pay costs. The lease was exempted accordingly, and the Erie Co. are now in possession of the line from Salamanca to Cleveland and through to Cincinnati.

The Tammany Theatre collapsed yesterday. The managers are out of town, the company are unpaid and the doors are closed. This makes the third fiasco in the amusement business this week.

Orders have been received from the Minister of Marine requiring the return to the Peninsula of the Spanish men-of-war Victoria, Lealtad, Navardetalesa, Ciudadde, Cadiz, Sanquintin, Vasco, Kunnz, De Balboa and the Ulloa. They are to return in February, as the Delamater gunboats render the presence of these large vessels unnecessary in water of the Island of Cuba. The Spanish man-of-war Hatatapo was taken into the Brooklyn Navy Yard yesterday.

It is said that the officers of the Brooklyn Navy Yard have invited Captain Comerill and officers of Her Brittanic Majesty's steamer Monarch to a grand ball and supper, to be given within the precints of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and that Captain Comerill and his officers have accepted.

Jay Gould, Wm. H. Vanderbilt, H. F. Clark and others were before the Legislative Railroad Committee yesterday to give testimony in relation to the sleeping and drawing room car business. Vanderbilt testified that he had no interest in these cars; that no efforts were made by the Erie Railroad Co. to induce passengers to ride in them, and that he regards them as an injury to the road on account of their great weight in proportion to the number of passengers they carried, but that they were forced to permit them on the Central and Hudson River roads in order to compete with the Pennsylvania Central and other roads. Jay Gould testified that the palace cars on the Erie road were run by an independent company, having no connection with Erie Co, and whose president he didn't even know by name.

Assistant Treasurer Folgar, of New York wrote to a member of the House Committee on Appropriations and says that the legislative bill only appropriated $00,000 for the next fiscal year for clerks, porters, detectives, &c., for his office and that $158,000 were needed to keep the office going with its present force, and if the necessary appropriation is not made a number of employees in the Sub-Treasury will be discharged soon.

It is stated that the Erie Railroad Company has offered $600,000 for the ground on which the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary stands on Ninth avenue, with a view to erect a monster railroad depot on the property. The Erie cars, it is stated also, are intended to cross the river from Jersey by running under the bed of the river in a gigantic tunnel.

Forty-first Congress—Second Session.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.

Mr. Williams from the Committee on Commerce, reported a substitute for the bill incorporating the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad Company.

Mr. Howard reported with amendment, the bill to fix the place of junction of the Union and Central Pacific Railroad.

Mr. Howard introduced a bill to divide the State of Texas and establish the territories of Jefferson and Matagorda. He said the proposition was to divide Texas into three parts, that portion east of San Antonio and Trinity river, containing by the census of 1860, about 230,000 inhabitants, to be called the Territory of Jefferson; that portion between those rivers and the Colorado river to constitute the State of Texas, which space in 1860 contained about 250,000 inhabitants, black and white; all west of the western boundary line of this State, embracing by the census of 1860 about 115,000 inhabitants, to be denominated as the Territory of Matagorda. These divisions were considered necessary in view of the present exceedingly extensive area of the State and incongruous character of the population. The assent of the State of Texas would be insisted upon to this arrangement before its admission to representation. The bill was referred to the Committee on Territories.

Mr. Wilson introduced a bill to prevent prize fighting. It provides punishment by imprisonment for not less than two years, and fine of not less than $3,000 for engaging in prize fighting in any territory or State, and half of said penalties for aiding in such fights as seconds or surgeons, the United States Courts to take cognizance of the offense.

Mr. Hamlin introduced a bill to provide a territorial government for the District of Columbia. Referred.

At the expiration of the morning hour Mr. Robertson introduced a bill to relieve the disabilities of various ex-rebels. He also presented the credentials of General Ames, Senator-elect from Mississippi. Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

The credentials of Revels as Senator from Mississippi were then taken up. The debate which followed assumed a wide range on political questions, and at 4.40 a vote was taken upon the motion of Stockton, to refer the credentials of Revels' to the Judiciary Committee, which was defeated by a party vote—yeas, 8; nays, 48. The vote to administer the oath resulted—yeas, 48; nays, 8.

Mr. Revels was then conducted in front of the President's desk by Wilson and the oath administered and he entered upon his office.

Mr. Revels took the seat assigned him by the Republican side, where a number of Senators and others tendered him their congratulations Adopted.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the Indian appropriation bill, appropriating $3,188,925.

Mr. Sargent, who had charge of the bill as member of the Committee on Appropriations, explained its provisions and exposed the dishonesties and peculations practiced under the general Indian treaty system.

Mr. Clarke expressed his views against the whole Indian treaty system and in favor of abrogation of all existing Indian treaties

Mr. Lawrence expressed his views against the Indian treaty system and his gratification at learning that President Grant had recently withdrawn from the Senate all pending Indian treaties.

Mr. Beck, a member of the Committee on Appropriations, declared his belief that this bill had been as well considered in committee as any bill had ever been.

OFFICE OF THE MORNING HERALD,
TITUSVILLE, Feb. 25, 1870—8 P. M.

The market to-day-day fairly staggered under the pressure that has been brought to bear upon it by the cliques interested in a fall in prices, and at all points, though quotations were almost as good as nominal owing to most of the sellers preferring to hold off, there was a decline of fifteen cents, sales having been made down to $4.25 on the Upper and at $4.35 on the Lower creek In the afternoon in consequence of a panicky feeling in the outside markets, and the decline in the gold premium, the creek market was very weak and there was almost no inquiry. At the close quotations were nominal, and, while the offerings had increased at the figures above mentioned there were no bids being made. Up to the middle of the afternoon there was some inquiry for future deliveries, principally on Pittsburgh account. On the Lower creek $4.35 was bid for seller's thirty and at Oil City there were buyers for sellers to July 1st at $4.50, broad gauge delivery. One sale of 5,000 barrels was made at that place at the figure named Thereafter buyers for futures weakened considerably, though at the close there was still some demand, but only at reduced rates.

Money and Stock Markets.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25

Wall street was more quiet to-day, but everything is still feverish. Gold was in active speculative demand and some of the "bears" covered their "shorts," with the fact that there was less fright on the part of the public, caused a rally in premiums. Most of the "bears" however, stubbornly resisted the upward movement and the closing price was ¼ ₱ cent below the highest point of the day A very large business was transacted, but the frenzy of yesterday was wanting.

On the Stock Exchange the "bulls" rallied prices slightly at times, but made little headway, and the day closed rather in favor of the bears. The present calm will probably be succeeded by another contest and wide fluctuations

Titusville Business Directory.

In the initial number of our enlarged paper, March 1st., we propose to devote sufficient space to give the name, location and business of every firm or individual of Titusville who is engaged in Manufacturing, Mining or Trading, or whose occupation is embraced among the "Professions." This will necessitate a very large amount of labor, and we respectfully request all who are included in the above arrangement to send us their names, location, and business.

Annexation.

A meeting of citizens will be held at Firemen's Hall, Franklin street, this evening, at 7½ o'clock, to discuss the propriety of annexing the city of Titusville to Venango county. A general attendance is requested.

IT is better to be a locomotive in Venango county than a tender in Crawford. Switch us off.

THE debt of Crawford county is $400,000. The debt of Venango county is $110,000. Choose ye.

THERE may be found at the store of Henry White & Co. a varied list of Lubins, Rimmels, Pinauds, and Colgate's fine toilet soap

WE hope our Representatives at Harrisburg will be instructed to-night, by resolution, to favor the immediate passage of a bill annexing Titusville to Venanno county.

THE distance from Titusville to Meadville by rail is sixty-five miles. The distance from Titusville to Franklin by rail is twenty-five miles. Difference in favor of Franklin, forty miles.

THERE was great rejoicing at Meadville on receiving the news of the defeat of the new county. Whether there will be equal rejoicing if Titusville should be joined to Venango county, is not quite so certain.

WE are bound for the happy land of Canaan. Meadville says that Titusville shall not go. That's what Pharoah said of the children of Israel. He refused to "let them go," but they went notwithstanding, and "the rock poured them out rivers of oil" forever afterward

THE Corry Telegraph urges the creation of a new county out of parts of Erie, Crawford and Warren, with Corry as a county seat. When they have agitated their project forty years, we shall advise them to do the next best thing that is offered. "Half a loaf is better than no bread."

TO VISIT Meadville for the transaction of an hour's business requires two days' time, two days' hotel board, and $3.30 railroad fare. To visit Franklin for the transaction of five hours' business, requires but one day's time, one "square meal" at the Exchange Hotel, and $1.60 railroad fare. Choose ye.

THE interests of Titusville are identical with those of Venango county. The bulk of our business traffic comes to us from that source, and the only unnatural barrier to a perfect unity is the dividing county line. The New County project is hopelessly defunct. Annexation should be the watchword from this time forward until it is an accomplished fact.

Annexation.

The fate of the new county is now known to a certainty. It is stone dead, and there is no resurrection for it this winter. With a Senator from this district favoring it; with two Representatives from this county urging the measure; with our own friends at the head and in the majority of the new county committees in either House; with the dominant party in in either House in sympathy with the party associations of our Representatives, the bill has been killed, and killed by a vote so overwhelming as to forbid any appeal and deny any protest.

In reviewing the struggle, we can now appreciate some of the elements of the opposition. A powerful lobby in our own county, in Meadville, has been both insidiously and audaciously at work for the defeat of the bill. Delegations from Meadville have gone to Harrisburg to neutralize, thwart and resist the wishes of their own Representatives. An intense, bitter, and almost universal opposition has been developed at Meadville against the measure. The three papers there have teemed with anonymous diatribes and denunciations, the grossest misrepresentations, and the most scandalous caricatures of the whole people of Titusville. But one man of note had the courage to raise his voice in our behalf; there has been but one public champion of our cause there, and even he was scarcely tolerated, and was almost suppressed. The best our personal friends could promise us, was neutrality, for opposition to this bill has been erected into a sort of test of fealty to the city of Meadville. All through the county too, the central power has disseminated the poison of its influence to prejudice the project. And so we have found out that they have hitherto deceived us. When there was no chance for a bill, they professed to be friendly, but when our opportunity seemed ripe, they spring to their feet and almost to a man, without distinction of party, consolidate their strength against us. So it has been in the past, and so it bids fair to be for the next half century.

We ask now to leave them—to sever our connection with Crawford county. We will go alone, leaving her the seven townships which she begrudges us, taking with us nothing but the "reckless speculators" which, according to Meadville, form the bulk of our population. If we cannot have courts and offices of record in our own city, at Franklin they will at least be within a few hours' reach, and with business men, time is money, distance is money, speedy justice is money. In Venango county such "reckless speculators" as we are will be appreciated. Between them and us there are now the closest social and business ties. They are the customers of our stores and shops. Our citizens whose homes are here, have their daily business and their worldly fortunes on the hills and along the streams of Venango county. The inhabitants of Meadville, of Sagertown, of Spartansburg, are, to the mass of our citizens, like the inhabitants of another planet It is to the citizens of Pleasantville, Shamburg, Petroleum Centre, Rouseville, Oil City, that we are knit by sympathy of pursuits and by common views and interests. They are our sort of people—liberal, enterprising, progressive, daring all things, hoping all things. If we could, however, discern, in the most distant future, a gleam of hope, one other such rare, and fortunate conjuncture of circumstances as we have had this year, we would not tell our people to roll up this New County Map. But when shall we again, in the mutations of politics, hope to see again a full Representation at Harrisburg in our favor? While on the other hand, year after year, the members from Venango and Warren, will be sworn by all that is sacred to kill a bill that despoils the very flower of their territory. No, no; we may prolong this agitation—we may widen this breach, we may sow the whirlwind and reap the storm; we may sweat and swear, spend and be spent, we shall still be "hewers of wood and drawers of water" to Meadville to the end of the chapter. Nor do we doubt that some of them will be glad to be rid of a people, so unappreciative of the sweets of bondage, and the luxury of dependence upon her.

OBITUARY.—The Corry Telegraph says Elijah Groom, of Spartansburg, died last Sunday morning at his residence near that place. He was an early settler in Spartansburg, where he engaged in trade. Failing in business he went to farming. For many years he has been principally engaged in selling mowing machines, renting his farm. Some time in April he was taken ill, and was just able to come out and vote last October. Since then he has been confined to his room. He died in full faith that in Christ there was assurance of salvation. For many years Mr. Groom's name has been on the roll of Columbus Lodge, A. Y. M., as a member in good standing, and he was buried on Tuesday, 15th inst., with masonic honors. The funeral sermon, by special request of the deceased, was preached by Rev. L. L. Spencer to one of the largest audiences that ever assembled in Spartansburg.

SUDDEN DEATH.—The Record states that the wife of Mr. John Owen, of Shamburg, formerly conductor on the Oil City and Pithole R. R., died very suddenly at that place, on Monday night. Mrs. Owen has been in very delicate health for some time past, and had only just returned from Minnesota where she had been for her health. She was taken with hemorrhage of the lungs and died within five minutes after the attack. Mrs. O. was a very estimable lady, and her sudden death has caused a gloom to fall over a large circle of acquaintances. The remains will be taken to Honesdale, Pa., for interment.

IT is asserted by the opponents of the new county project that had the bill passed it would be voted down in Crawford county by a large majority. We fully share that conviction. We believe that the defeat of the bill was "a blessing in disguise." Happily, Crawford county cannot vote upon "annexation," and Venango county having graciously offered her hospitalities, we hope the meeting to-night will unanimously resolve to go over without delay. Any port in a storm.

ACCIDENT TO LANMAN CHASE.—We regret to state that a serious accident occurred to Lanman Chase, son of Hon. E. H. Chase, of this city, on Monday last. Mr. Chase is attending Cambridge Law School, and on descending the stairway of a hotel in Boston, he fell over the banister, striking his head against a chandalier. His right eye was seriously injured and it was thought the sight would be destroyed, but a later dispatch states this fear is removed, and the injury is less severe than anticipated.

A LADY desires to acknowledge publicly the receipt of $20.60, from sundry kind-hearted individuals, by the hand of Mrs. H. M. Hall. The same will be faithfully applied to relieve the necessities of the suffering family for whom it was solicited.

NO NEW COUNTY, but something just as good—a new invoice of "No Name" Segars at Brons'.

EVERY SATURDAY at HOWE'S.

The New County Bill in the House.

The defeat of the New County bill in the House at Harrisburg, on Wednesday last, it is unnecessary to say, caused an intense feeling of disappointment in this community, but perhaps no greater than was experienced by our own representatives in the Legislature when the vote on that measure was announced.

The bill came up in its regular order on the private calendar, just before the hour of adjournment in the afternoon. Nearly all the members were in their seats, the spectators' seats were filled, and there was a hushed feeling of expectation that the project, which has been so much talked of throughout the session, and which had excited so interesting and spirited a discussion on its passage in the Senate, would be subjected to an equally trying ordeal in the House. But few who considered themselves familiar with the situation doubted its entire success. Some of the most strenuous opponents of the measure believed its passage inevitable, and although there was a numerous delegation of citizens from Franklin to lobby against the bill, it was not until they were reinforced by the ex-Treasury ring, headed by Mackey, Bergner, Quay, et al, that the safety of the bill was imperilled. Those honest gentry, having their own political and personal resentments to subserve, and aided by Senator Wallace, who desired only to perpetuate, as he expressed it, "the canker which is gnawing at the vitals of Republicanism in Crawford county," came into the field with such arguments as the cupidity of the "rings" could not resist. From that hour the bill was lost and the hour's discussion which followed upon the merits of the bill was simply a waste of words; and an unnecessary detention of members who having been duly convinced of the "infamy" of the new county measure, were impatient to kill it off, and go to supper. Mr. McJunkin of Franklin opened the ball, in a spirited and pathetic speech which fully rehearsed all the objection to the measure from that quarter, and concluded by moving the indefinite postponement of the bill

Mr. Stone, of Warren, followed in an equally earnest effort, speaking particularly in behalf of Meadville and its distinguished Bar. Letters which he presented from Judge Derickson and W. R. Bole were read by the Clerk, setting forth that the New County scheme was the project of a few corner-lot speculators; that it was designed only for the convenience of Titusville, and nobody else wanted it; that Meadville had a magnificent court house, and her courts were competent to meet all demands; that there was no material delay in litigation, and that Titusville had no more court business than any other section; and, finally, that the debt of Crawford county was $100,000, which would be imperilled by the proposed division, etc., etc., etc.

A motion to adjourn followed, but was emphatically voted down. Mr. Ames then got the floor, and made a brief, but earnest and forcible argument in favor of the bill. He showed that Titusville, which ten years ago was a village of 300 inhabitants, had developed into a thriving and prosperous city, which had become the commercial centre of the oil region. That the oil business had enriched all the county round-about, and added largely to the population of Crawford county, that Titusville exhibited the second largest telegraph business in Pennsylvania, had the third largest postoffice, and near a dozen business firms transacting from $250,000 to to $1,000,000 a year. He showed, also, that the Crawford county courts were altogether inadequate; that litigation was continually and almost hopelessly retarded. He had suits of his own which had been ten years on the calendar and were yet untried, and moreover there were now 3,000 causes on the civil calendar undisposed of. Titusville was not, as the opponents of the bill had endeavored to show, a rural village. On the contrary, it was the most wealthy and most promising city of its age and size in the State; and was yet destined to rank among the largest. Mr. Ames then proceeded to show that the people of the adjacent townships were almost equally desirous for the erection of a new county, and presented numerously signed petitions for that object from Pleasantville, Plum, Cherrytree, and other townships in Venango and all parts of Eastern Crawford.

Mr. Johnson then proceeded to speak in favor of the bill, and advocated its passage as a constitutional right. The people had an undoubted right to this legislation, that they might pass upon its merits at the ballot box, in the manner the Constitution prescribed, and thus dispose of the only apple of discord in our social and material affairs. He urged that the mass of the people were in favor of this policy. that some of the most strenuous opponents of the new county were in favor of submitting the question to the popular vote, and he indignantly resented the imputation that a people who were merely petitioning for their rights were conspiring for infamy and fraud. For himself, he was elected on that issue; it was the absorbing issue of the campaign, and he had committed himself fully upon that question. He recognized the necessities of this region for a new county seat, and characterized the growth and prosperity of Titusville as unexampled in the State. The speech was a vigorous and manly defence of the bill, and particularly of the manifest justice and wisdom of affording the people of Crawford county an opportunity to settle the vexed question in the manner the Constitution prescribed, and thus end the controversy forever.

The ayes and nays were then called on the motion to postpone, and were as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Albright, Armstrong, Beans, Boileau, Brobst, Brown, Bunn, Carlin, Chamberlain, Church, Cooper, Coray, Craig, Creitz, Darlington, Deininger, Dill, (Adams), Dimmick, Elliott, Engelman, Forsyth, Fulton, Godshalk, Hall, Harvey, Her, Hill, Humphreys, Hursh, Johnston, (Philadelphia), Keech, Keffer, Kerr, Kreps, Leidig, Leonard, Long, Longenecker, M'Cracken, M'Junkin, M'Kinstry, M'Mahon, Marshall, Meyer, Milliken, Montgomery, Parsons, Porter (Cambria), Porter (York), Reinoehl, Roberts, Robison, Rohrer, Schnatterly, Swartz, Shurlock, Smith, Snyder, Steele (Armstrong), Stevens, Stokes, Stone, Taylor, Thomas, Tyler, Walton, Webb, White and Wiley—69.

Nays—Messrs. Adaire, Ames, Cloud, Comly, Dailey, Davis, Eschbach, Hong, Johnson (Crawford), Josephs, Keene, Leslie, M'Ateer, M'Creary, Maxwell, Miller (Allegheny), Miller (Philadelphia), Mooney, Niles, Scott, Skinner, Nankigk, Wheeler, Woolever and Strang, Speaker—25.

Mr. Bowman paired with Mr. Buffington.

So the question was dermined in the affirmative.

Mr. Brown, of Clarion, moved a reconsideration, but the motion was defeated by a large majority, and the House adjourned,

Thus endeth the New County.

Curiosities of the Thermometer.

The cold snap of the past thirty-six hours seems to have extended along the Atlantic slope, from Portland to New Orleans. The mercury stood Tuesday morning, at 9 a. m., in Portland at 5 degrees, in New York city at 18, Wilmington, Del., at 15, at Fortress Monroe at 22, in Richmond at 18, in Charleston at 33, in Mobile at 47, and in New Orleans at 54. The depression on the Gulf is not indeed extreme, but full twenty degrees below the ordinary temperature, and it is probable that a Norther has been felt on the coast line of Texas. In western New York the cold is severe—at Oswego ten degrees, at Buffalo eight degrees. Yet in Louisville, Ky., it was but two degrees colder Tuesday morning than at Charleston, S. C., and at Chicago, not so cold by two degrees as at Richmond, Va. Stranger still, it was eight degrees colder at Fortress Monroe than at Halifax, Nova Scotia, which is further north by seven degrees of latitude. The weather prophets will probable say that our old friend, the Gulf Stream, has had something to do with this.

THE report of the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, just issued, shows the presence of a very considerable military spirit in our midst, and also proves that that spirit is on the increase. In 1867 there were but thirty-eight companies of uniformed militia in existence in the whole State. In 1868 they had increased to seventy-eight companies. This year shows one hundred and sixty-eight companies in actual organization and condition for service, and, in addition, twenty-five companies are organizing. Of the one hundred and seven companies organized during 1869, fifty-six, more than one half, were raised in Philadelphia. The city companies are organized in regiments, which are in turn brigaded, forming the First Division Pennsylvania State Militia.

TRICHINA IN BRIDGEPORT.—The wife of J. Koch, music teacher and piano tuner, died in Bridgeport, Ct., on Wednesday night, of trichina spiralis. The disease was caused by eating uncooked ham. There are said to be five persons in three families who are afflicted with trichina spiralis, brought on by eating raw pork, or pork which was not thoroughly cooked. Several of the parties are quite seriously ill, and one of them, the wife of a well known citizen, is not expected to recover. One would think that a person who was barbarous enough to eat uncooked meat, in these days of model cooks and sanitary admonitions, might be proof against almost any disease.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A Torpid System.—Sometimes, without any assignable cause, the physical strength and animal spirits give way, and a strange torpor falls alike on the body and intellect. There is little or no pain, perhaps, but the natural vigor and elasticity of the nervous and muscular system seems to have departed, and an indifference to the pleasures of life, and even of its grave responsibilities, takes the place of that earnest interest in both which characterizes every well balanced mind when in a healthy condition.

The state of partial collapse is often the premonitory symptoms of some serious malady. It indicates unmistakably that the vital powers are languishing and need a stimulant. In such cases the effect of a few doses of Hostlers's Stomach Bitters is wonderfully beneficial. The great tonic wakes up the system from its drowse. The secretions and the circulation receives a new impetus. The relaxed nerves recover their elasticity under the operations of the specific, like the slackened strength of a musical instrument in the process of tuning. Lethargy and debility are replaced by energy and vigor, the spirits rise, and life that almost seemed a burden while the season of depression lasted, becomes once more enjoyable. That such a radical change should be produced by a remedy entirely devoid of the powerful alkaloids and minerals so extensively used in modern practice, may seem incredible to those who pin their faith on the medical efficacy of active poisons, but if these skeptics will take the trouble to enquire of those who have tested the corrective and alterative virtues of the Bitters under the circumstances described, they will find the statement to be true.

Torpedoes — Nitro-Glycerin—Electricity.

The public, and particularly those interested in oil wells and blasting, are hereby informed that the exclusive right to use Nitro-Glycerin in oil wells for torpedoing and blasting the said wells, and the exclusive right to use Electricity for exploding torpedoes in oil wells, have been licensed to the Roberts Torpedo Company.

The patents for the use of Nitro-Glycerin for any and all kinds of blasting, in rock or in oil wells, or for torpedoing the same, are owned by the United States Blasting Oil Company, and leased to the Nitro-Glycerin Company of New York. The same company has the exclusive patents for blasting Nitro-Glycerin with electricity, and all other known modes of exploding it.

The undersigned, personally, in 1866, obtained several letters patent for the exclusive right to blast Nitro-Glycerin, Gun Powder, Gun Cotton, and all other explosive substances, by electricity, made by any and all kinds of electric batteries, in oil wells. These patents are licensed to the Roberts Torpedo Company.

The undersigned has been informed, and believes that divers and sundry persons are violating the patents above referred to, in and about the oil regions of Pennsylvania, under the instigation of George M. Mowbray and his confederates. That they are torpedoing oil wells with Nitro-Glycerin manufactured by the said Mowbray and his confederates, at or near Painesville, Ohio, under the name of the Lake Shore Nitro-Glycerin Company; that they are bringing the said Nitro-Glycerin into the oil regions for the purpose of blasting; and further the undersigned has been informed, and verily believes, that the said Mowbray and his confederates have been and are using and blasting rock and torpedoing oil wells, in violation of the patents granted to him, the undersigned, by the United States government, for blasting rock and oil wells with electricity.

Now this is to give the said Mowbray and his confederates, and all others concerned, notice that unless they give satisfactory assurances that they will desist from violating any and all of the aforesaid patents, and also give a full account of moneys received by said violation acts and doings, and pay the said moneys to the order of the undersigned, on or before the 11th day of January, 1870, suits will be commenced and prosecuted with all possible energy against all and severally the said Mowbray and confederates, and also the owners of the rock, works and oil wells blasted or torpedoed by the said Mowbray and confederates.

The undersigned desires to inform the proprietors of oil wells, whether land or working interest, employing he said Mowbray and his confederates, that they will be looked to as the responsible offenders in the violation of the patents aforesaid, and that they must not expect to escape by the employment of irresponsible persons to torpedo their wells, as the patent laws hold responsible as offenders, all persons who receive benefit by the said torpedoes.

This notice is hereby given by the undersigned in his own behalf, as patentee of electrical blasting, and as President of the United States Blasting Oil Company, and of the Nitro-Glycerin Company of the City of New York. TAL. P. SHAFFNER.

Titusville, Jan. 12, 1870.-tf.

Nitro-Glycerin—Warning.

The public interested in torpedoing oil wells and blasting rock, are hereby warned against using the Nitro-Glycerin manufactured by Geo M. Mowbray and his confederates at Painesville, Ohio, and all persons so using the said Nitro-Glycerin, or benefitted by its use, will be prosecuted in law.

TAL. P. SHAFFNER,
President of the Nitro-Glycerin Co., 78 and 80 Broadway, New York.

Nitro-Glycerine.—A rumor having reached the undersigned, although no papers have been served, that the U. S. Blasting Oil Company of New York intend applying for an injunction for infringement of Patents by the writer and others, this is to notify the public, that this issue will be squarely met, and the assertions of T. P. Shaffner will now be tested by a decision of the United States District Court of Western Pennsylvania. To that decision the public is referred, and I will judge of the veracity of the parties in interest accordingly, and it is hoped the public mind will no further be disturbed by these conflicting assertions hereafter. GEO. M MOWBRAY.

POETICAL ALBUM

BY MRS M A SLOONER

Awake, oh Zion! arise in thy beauty,
Put on thy glad vestments, bright Joy of the earth!
Look forth in the morning
Lo! the day is fast dawning,
When thou of thy travail, shall view a new birth.

Night shadows lay o'er thee, night's shadows so drear,
The moon and the sun shall be bright not be seen,
But light is soft streaming,
The day star is beaming, —
Thine is thy beauty, O earth's brightest Queen

See, see, they are coming, in crowds they are coming,
To gain thy bright summits, how ardent they strain,
The dark valley leaving,
Where's sorrow and grieving,
To dwell with her loveliness—Light of the main

Then see thy fair bosom, abound unly swelling,
Be safe from destruction, the spoils in its blink,
LOCHO! Fled them fly to the mountain—
The sin-cleansing Fountain,
Where's safety and life, or alas! they must sink!

For thou art replenished with all things delightful,
Man's sorrows to heal, and his spirits to cheer,
With thee is full measure,
The life-giving treasure,
Well ransomed in heart-faith brings eternity here

Then arise in thy splendor—arise in thy glory!
Thou star of time's ocean, bright halo o'er earth,
The Bridegroom is cheering,
The glad hour fast nearing
When Nations shall yield with best joy to thy birth!

WRITTEN IN AN ALBUM BY MRS M A SLOONER

May joys, sweet smiling friend, thy steps bestrew,
Each as thy friend and guardian best may direct,
For oft in rugged ways spring those most true,
And bloom for heaven, where death and darkness seem
